PIPED BY US, OWNED BY YOU

Scotland's water is vital to our everyday lives and Scottish Water is responsible for caring for it. We are publicly owned, and invest every penny into protecting the nation's most precious resource and our services.

Scottish Water is owned by you, the Scottish public – so it really is your water, for your life.

The charges you pay allow us to operate and improve water and waste water services and infrastructure in communities across Scotland.

THIS COSTS AROUND £1.20 A DAY FOR THE AVERAGE HOUSEHOLD*

Every day we deliver over 1.5 billion litres of clear, fresh drinking water to your taps, and remove around 1.1 billion litres of waste water which we treat, recover resources from and return safely to the environment.

Our services support more than 5 million customers, in over 2.6 million households and more than 159,000 business premises across Scotland.

With more than 60,000 miles of water pipes and sewers, and over 2,000 treatment works we support communities across Scotland.

The quality of our drinking water remains high – we carry out, on average, 1 quality test every 2 minutes† on the water we supply to your taps.

Our focus is on delivering an excellent service, providing great value for money, and reducing our impact on the environment. We work 24 hours a day, 365 days a year to keep the water cycle flowing.

* The average household is between Council Tax Band B and Band C and has a combined bill of around £1.20 a day.

† This is based on 2022 figures – the most up-to-date figures available at the time of going to print.

Promising to give you value for money

Around £1.20 doesn't buy much these days – you wouldn't get a takeaway coffee, a bus ticket, or a newspaper for that.

And yet, for around £1.20 a day you get enough water to use for the vital things that help you live your life, your way. Washing, cooking, thirst quenching and showering – everyone's lives are water-powered. Most people in Scotland now use about 180 litres of clean Scottish tap water every day. This is more than elsewhere in the UK and could be reduced easily, to protect our precious natural resource.

Climate change and different weather patterns make it harder to deliver the water and waste water services Scotland needs.

We're investing around £800 million in 2024/25 to make sure we can meet future challenges, especially around climate change, maintaining and replacing ageing infrastructure, and reducing carbon emissions.

Help us to help you

Everything we all do impacts the environment, so we are working hard to keep our water and waste water services as sustainable as possible.

You can help, together we can make a difference.

- Water is always worth saving – and helps save energy and money. Taking 2 minutes off your shower saves water and around £130 a year on your energy bill^.
- Look after our natural habitats and marine life – dispose of bathroom and kitchen waste items carefully to help prevent nasty blockages and spills.
- Stay hydrated and reduce single use plastics – use a glass or refillable bottle to top up from the tap and enjoy Scotland's great-tasting water.
